

RideKC NEXT

What do you think about changes to the transit network in the Draft Plan?

The RideKC Next project is a comprehensive review and redesign of current transit service focused on Kansas City, Mo. (KCMO). The goal is to make changes to the transit network that reflect the needs, priorities and values of people in KCMO communities. A Draft Plan has been created by Kansas City Area Transportation Authority after thorough review and research, direct engagement with stakeholders, and, of course, the community's responses to the summer 2019 survey!

PHASE ONE

- Gather community feedback with a survey and outreach
- Review existing transit service

COMPLETED

PHASE TWO

- Share a draft plan
- Gather additional community feedback

IN PROGRESS

PHASE THREE

- Review and approve a plan by the KCATA Board of Commissioners
- Implement the plan in 2020

COMING SOON

Take the Survey

What's in the Draft Plan?

- Same amount of RideKC transit service, but a higher priority on expanding ridership.
- A frequent grid, seven days a week, to connect more people to opportunity.
- A simpler, easier and more efficient network.
- Retaining options for those who need transit the most.

Learn more, view proposed route maps and read the Draft Plan on the RideKC.org website.

